

Out of a Job?
Get a World Postal Card and advertise.
PRICE ONE CENT.

THE NEW YORK WORLD

NO LIMIT TO THE USE FOR A WORLD POSTAL CARD.

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK. A GREAT MAY WALK.

Over 60,000 Little Children Will Parade To-Day in Brooklyn.

Fine Weather for the Sunday-School Union's 63d Anniversary.

Dr. Talmage to Head One Division, Mayor Boody to Review Another.

The clear sky, balmy air and genial sun meant more to the children of Brooklyn to-day than to any one else in the great metropolitan district. It meant that the sixty-third annual parade of the Sunday-School Union was to be a grand success and the day a time of festivity.

Grand Marshal Charles E. Talmage, sixty-four thousand little girls and boys were in eager preparation during the forenoon for their appearance in the great demonstration of the afternoon.

Grand Marshal Charles E. Talmage and William McCord, Charles C. Smith, Dr. George W. Brush, Joseph P. Davenport, John M. P. Winkler and Silas M. Giddings, of the committee of Arrangements, had performed the duty of preparing the programmes for the twelve divisions of the great parade with such care that no hitch was possible.

Each division was to be in itself an independent parading party, having a parade ground of its own, a marshal of its own, a brass band of its own, and its own special gathering of admiring spectators, fathers, mothers and friends.

When the big bell in the tower of the city hall gave the signal at 11 o'clock that the parade would take place and all the bells in the steeples of the churches in the Brooklyn Sunday-School Union rang out their responses, it was sweet music to the children of 170 Sunday-schools.

W. A. LOCKE, MARSHAL CLINTON AVENUE DIVISION.

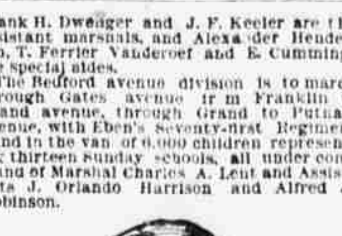

Upon Assistant Marshal Robert A. McFadden and Charles H. Burckett fell the duty of seeing to it that the programme was carried out to the letter. They were ably assisted by the twelve division marshals.

To begin with, the programme directed that the children of the 170 Sunday-schools, and the churches to which they were so prettily assigned at precisely 2:30 o'clock, except those of the Prospect Park Division, were to assemble in fifteen minutes earlier.

In the churches the children were to participate in special exercises, in singing, Scripture reading, prayer, singing and an appropriate address, the whole to conclude at the end of exactly one hour with a benediction.

Then the six-seventy assemblies are to turn into six-seventy parades, and the children are to march to the appointed parade grounds of their respective divisions.

The Prospect Park Division is to appear 11,000 strong at 3:15 o'clock at Prospect Park, where, marshaled by Lawyer David Clark Kelly, the children will parade in the Long Meadow to the music of Ludovic Costello's Brighton Beach Band.

DAVID C. BEATTY, MARSHAL PROSPECT PARK DIVISION.

Capt. William Kerby, of the Thirtieth Regiment, never led a more gallant band than his command of today, the New York avenue division, comprising 5,000 children in three great regiments. This division is to march through Jefferson avenue, from Tompkins to North and North to Hancock street, thence to Marcy avenue and through Marcy to North, where Thirtieth Regiment band in the van, with Lt. E. Brown and George W. Hunt as aides to Marshal Kerby.

The Heights division will have for its Marshal, Mr. Dwight Sudwell, a veteran in the business, with Albert Haley and Herbert Studwell for his assistants. It will parade along Clinton street, with a reviewing stand at the corner of Remson street. Seven thousand children from twenty-one schools will be in this division.

Philip Evans will command 1,800 children in the parade of the Ocean Hill Division on the old Young Men's Christian Association athletic grounds, Atlantic avenue and back-mountain street.

The South Brooklyn Division, under Marshal H. L. Spencer, and Assistant Marshal J. L. Brown, with James Campbell as special aide, selected for a parading ground Third and Fourth streets, from Third to Fifth, Fifty-second and Fifty-third streets.

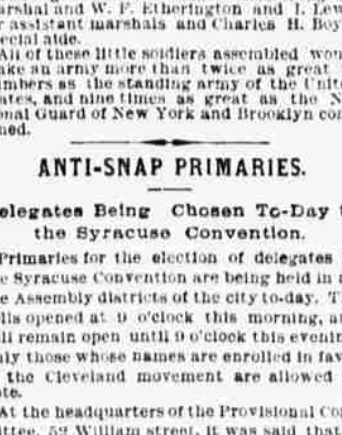

The Staytonville avenue division, with 5,000 children from thirteen schools, selected for a parading ground the Staytonville avenue, from Staytonville to Staytonville, with John E. Hill and Frederick A. Yard, assistant marshals.

Grand Marshal Charles E. Talmage, sixty-four thousand little girls and boys were in eager preparation during the forenoon for their appearance in the great demonstration of the afternoon.

Grand Marshal Charles E. Talmage and William McCord, Charles C. Smith, Dr. George W. Brush, Joseph P. Davenport, John M. P. Winkler and Silas M. Giddings, of the committee of Arrangements, had performed the duty of preparing the programmes for the twelve divisions of the great parade with such care that no hitch was possible.

Each division was to be in itself an independent parading party, having a parade ground of its own, a marshal of its own, a brass band of its own, and its own special gathering of admiring spectators, fathers, mothers and friends.

When the big bell in the tower of the city hall gave the signal at 11 o'clock that the parade would take place and all the bells in the steeples of the churches in the Brooklyn Sunday-School Union rang out their responses, it was sweet music to the children of 170 Sunday-schools.

W. A. LOCKE, MARSHAL CLINTON AVENUE DIVISION.

Upon Assistant Marshal Robert A. McFadden and Charles H. Burckett fell the duty of seeing to it that the programme was carried out to the letter. They were ably assisted by the twelve division marshals.

To begin with, the programme directed that the children of the 170 Sunday-schools, and the churches to which they were so prettily assigned at precisely 2:30 o'clock, except those of the Prospect Park Division, were to assemble in fifteen minutes earlier.

In the churches the children were to participate in special exercises, in singing, Scripture reading, prayer, singing and an appropriate address, the whole to conclude at the end of exactly one hour with a benediction.

Then the six-seventy assemblies are to turn into six-seventy parades, and the children are to march to the appointed parade grounds of their respective divisions.

The Prospect Park Division is to appear 11,000 strong at 3:15 o'clock at Prospect Park, where, marshaled by Lawyer David Clark Kelly, the children will parade in the Long Meadow to the music of Ludovic Costello's Brighton Beach Band.

POINTERS ON THE RACES. Parkway Handicap Will Be the Feature at Gravesend To-Day.

Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell and Other Cracks to Meet.

The Parkway Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, will bring together at the Gravesend track to-day Longstreet, Russell, Major Domo, Macadam, Charade and other good horses. If the race named start the race should be well worth watching, and the race will be a royal battle. This is the only event on the card. The other races are over-night events, but contain high-class horses and promise interesting racing. The track will be dry and fast. The selections are as follows:

First Race—Sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward that have run and not won at this meeting. $1,000 added, six furlongs. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Second Race—Handicap sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward. $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Third Race—The Parkway Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward. $50 each, with $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Fourth Race—Selling sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward. $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Fifth Race—Selling sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward. $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Sixth Race—Selling sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward. $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Seventh Race—Selling sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward. $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Eighth Race—Selling sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward. $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

Ninth Race—Selling sweepstakes of $20 each, for three-year-olds and upward. $1,000 added, one mile and three-eighths. Longstreet, Major Domo, Russell, Macadam, Charade, and other good horses.

STABBED A WOMAN. Old Mrs. Springer Assaulted and Robbed by Her Lodger.

He Struck Her Down from Behind and Terribly Wounded Her.

Police Searching for Lithographer Lutz, Whom She Accuses.

An atrocious assault was made upon Mrs. Martinus Springer, an old German woman, who lives in the small room, on the right, in the rear at 122 Park Row, about 9 o'clock this morning, as is supposed, by a lithographer named Lutz, who rented one of her rooms about a week ago.

Robbery was the motive for the crime, and she is seriously if not fatally injured. Lutz has escaped.

About 10 o'clock Mrs. Springer's son-in-law, Arthur Mule, a painter, whose shop adjoins her room, heard moans in her apartment, and went to her door to see what was the matter. He found her lying on the floor, and the old woman feebly crying for help.

"What is the matter?" he shouted through the door.

"Lutz has killed me," she answered, and he ran into the street and brought Policeman John Shevlin, of the oak street squad, into the house. Shevlin burst the door open.

He found the old woman drenched in blood, lying face downward on the floor. Blood was running from a great gash on the back of her head, and there were two clean cut stab wounds in her forehead, one over each eye.

The rooms presented a scene of the greatest disorder. Bureau drawers were turned upside down on the floor, and their contents scattered about in confusion. There was a bowl full of bloody water in the lodger's room.

Shevlin sent for an ambulance, and then turned the case over to Policeman Thomas G. Tuomey, of the Elizabeth street station, in which precinct the crime was committed.

In a feeble voice Mrs. Springer told her son-in-law that the man who had done this to her was a Lithographer named Lutz. "I was at breakfast," she said, "My little boy and girl had just gone to school. Lutz came out of his room and attacked me when my back was turned. He knocked me down with a chair and kicked me. I fought him back, but I could not cry out. He seized my hand over my mouth and then made those cuts in my head."

DAILEY'S ACCUSER. Miss Hannan Insaits Her Charge Against Him Is True.

But for Her Mother's Arrest It Would Not Have Been Made.

Lizzie Lawlor, an Important Witness, Is Not to Be Found.

Some doubt has developed to-day as to the real facts in the case of Roundman Matthew Dailey, of the Delancey street police station, who is accused of having assaulted Mamie Hannan, the pretty sixteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Annie Hannan, of 318 Monroe street.

The girl still insists that her charge is true. She tells a straightforward story and is sincere in her allegations. Mamie declares that Lizzie Lawlor, a sister of Policeman Lawlor, of the East Twenty-second street station, was with her in Joseph Keller's saloon, at Broome and Third streets, where she claims the alleged assault was committed on the night of March 26, but the Lawlor woman cannot be found to substantiate Miss Hannan's charges.

On the other hand, Roundman Dailey is firm in his denial of the girl's allegations, and his denial is to a certain extent substantiated by Saloon-Keeper Keller, by President Roddy, of the John Simpson coterie, which place is said to have been the scene of the alleged assault, and by other persons, who allege that the Lawlor woman had Mamie Hannan at her house frequently under questionable circumstances.

Roundman Dailey's trouble grew out of his arresting Mrs. Hannan in front of her home Monday night on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was locked up at the Delancey street station. Yesterday, when arraigned in the Essex Market Court before Justice Taintor, she turned on her accuser and denounced him for the alleged assault upon her daughter.

She accused him of having taken Mamie to Keller's saloon in company with the Lawlor woman and a police sergeant, and of having, in their presence, forcibly accomplished the girl's ruin. She did not learn of the affair, she told Justice Taintor, until two weeks later, when Mamie made a confession.

In a feeble voice Mrs. Springer told her son-in-law that the man who had done this to her was a Lithographer named Lutz. "I was at breakfast," she said, "My little boy and girl had just gone to school. Lutz came out of his room and attacked me when my back was turned. He knocked me down with a chair and kicked me. I fought him back, but I could not cry out. He seized my hand over my mouth and then made those cuts in my head."

Both the woman's eyes were blackened, and she was very weak from loss of blood. She has a husband, who is in the insane asylum at Ward's Island, and three children, two girls and a boy.

The oldest girl is married to Mule, while the other two are single. Shevlin, who went to her home, found her lying on the floor, and the old woman feebly crying for help.

"What is the matter?" he shouted through the door.

SUGGESTION FOR CAMPAIGN BANNER. PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

A STATE BANK IN TROUBLE. The People's, of Sea Isle City, N. J., Has Closed Its Doors.

SEA ISLE CITY, N. J., May 25.—The People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

"We regret to announce that the People's Bank of this city, has closed the doors and the following notice is posted upon them:

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK. 10-YEARS WAGE LIST.

Granite Manufacturers Will Propose This to the Unions.

Substance of the Statement Decided on at the Boston Meeting.

Work of Repairing with Old Blocks Begun by Gilroy's Orders.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

Boston, May 25.—While the official statement to the public decided upon at yesterday's meeting of the Executive Committee of the New England Granite Manufacturers' Association will not be given out this evening its tenor has been learned from authoritative sources. It is said that the meeting at the Quincy House was not only largely attended, but was in every respect harmonious and satisfactory to those concerned. Members who were present declared that the meeting was not called for the purpose of surrendering to the unions, and that that course was not even suggested.

All the members soon made light of the break from their ranks of the Cape Ann Granite Company, which was announced exclusively by THE EVENING WORLD. The reported settlement with the workmen by the Webster & Morse Company, of Barre, Vt., was not officially known to the committee, and members professed to disbelieve the story.

The substance of the statement to be issued tonight will say:

"For five years, the wages paid to workmen have increased, and the prices for granite have diminished. Not this alone drove the manufacturers to combine, but the competition by the stone men, which hampered prices down, and the powerful labor organizations lifted wages up. Between the two the granite manufacturers were being ground to the point of putting out their products without profit.

"Then came the organization of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of New England. A year ago the men made demands which the manufacturers were unable to meet. They yielded, and they yielded. Then came the determination to force matters themselves, for self-protection and to forever settle the question as to whether the men or the manufacturers should control the business. All contracts since that time have been made with the granite manufacturers, and they have been made on the basis of a long list of demands which the manufacturers in case of long shutdowns if the men should resist.

"The manufacturers do not reply to the manifesto of the cutters, recently issued, but they call attention to the fact that no cry of low wages has been heard since the men's wages were higher than those paid in most industries. They dispose of the assertion made by the men that the manufacturers wish to make their list date from the 'last' time, by pointing out that the men's wages were higher than those paid in most industries. They dispose of the assertion made by the men that the manufacturers wish to make their list date from the 'last' time, by pointing out that the men's wages were higher than those paid in most industries.

"The granite manufacturers are being ground to the point of putting out their products without profit. Then came the organization of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of New England. A year ago the men made demands which the manufacturers were unable to meet. They yielded, and they yielded. Then came the determination to force matters themselves, for self-protection and to forever settle the question as to whether the men or the manufacturers should control the business. All contracts since that time have been made with the granite manufacturers, and they have been made on the basis of a long list of demands which the manufacturers in case of long shutdowns if the men should resist.

"The granite manufacturers are being ground to the point of putting out their products without profit. Then came the organization of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of New England. A year ago the men made demands which the manufacturers were unable to meet. They yielded, and they yielded. Then came the determination to force matters themselves, for self-protection and to forever settle the question as to whether the men or the manufacturers should control the business. All contracts since that time have been made with the granite manufacturers, and they have been made on the basis of a long list of demands which the manufacturers in case of long shutdowns if the men should resist.

"The granite manufacturers are being ground to the point of putting out their products without profit. Then came the organization of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of New England. A year ago the men made demands which the manufacturers were unable to meet. They yielded, and they yielded. Then came the determination to force matters themselves, for self-protection and to forever settle the question as to whether the men or the manufacturers should control the business. All contracts since that time have been made with the granite manufacturers, and they have been made on the basis of a long list of demands which the manufacturers in case of long shutdowns if the men should resist.